Couple charged in area-wide crime spree

A pair of suspects appeared in court today to face charges of armed robbery, home invasion and felony firearm violations following what police described as a crime spree Sept. 28.

The pair, Duan Crawford, 26 and Darlene Binyard, 25, both of Inkster, are accused of forcing themselves into the home of an elderly man on Beechwood in Garden City just after midnight Sept. 28. They are accused of stealing a pistol from the man and taking his car. Police said that the couple kicked down the door of a home in the 1500 block of West River Park in Inkster at 5:48 a.m. where they stole cash, credit cards and a laptop from the woman at the home. They are accused of also forcing their way into a home on the 30800 block of Somerset in Westland and robbing a family of four at gunpoint at 6:10 a.m.

They are also charged in the attempted robbery of another woman in the 28500 block of Somerset in Inkster at 6:39 a.m. In this case, the intended victim was able to prevent the pair from entering her home.

The two were identified when the vehicle stolen in the Garden City invasion apparently ran out of gas and the pair left evidence in the car which led to their identity and subsequent arrest by Westland police officers.

Crawford and Binyard were arraigned in Westland 18th District Court on charges of first-degree home invasion, four counts of armed robbery and one count of felony firearm. Crawford is also charged with being a felon in possession of a firearm and being a fourth-degree habitual offender and as a parole absconder.

Not guilty charges were entered for both defendants who remain in custody in lieu of $750,000 bond. Their probably cause hearing was scheduled today at the Westland Court and a preliminary examination on the charges is set for Oct. 22.

Westland police said that a breaking and entering at a home on the 33600 block of Avondale that also occurred in the early-morning hours of Sept. 28 remains under investigation. Additional charges against the couple are expected to be filed in other communities, according to police.

Heart attack victim reunites with doctor who saved him during race

The Red October Run had a much happier ending this year for Raymond Dreher.

Dreher, a Taylor resident, finished the 5K race in 34:38, good for second place in the 70-74 age group. Last year, the race nearly killed him.

A regular runner, the 70-year-old Dreher was nearing the corner of Howe and Annapolis roads-just a few blocks from Beaumont Hospital - Wayne, where the race begins and ends-when he felt an overwhelming sense of dizziness. He stopped running, walked for a few yards, and fell flat on his face.

"The world was spinning and then I just dropped," Dreher said. "I don't recall much of anything after that."

Dreher had suffered a major heart attack, caused by blockages in several prime arteries. He flat-lined in the street and required immediate care to save his life. Fortunately for him, fate intervened.

A nurse running behind him noticed the fall and rushed to his aid. Even better, Karen Weaver, M.D., a family medicine physician who heads the medical education program at Beaumont Hospital - Wayne, was also nearby. Normally, she volunteers at a water station along the race route but she had momentarily left her post and was escorting her 6-year-old daughter back toward the hospital for a pit stop. By happenstance, she came upon the hectic scene.

"When I went around the corner, I saw people standing over him," Weaver said. "I started running toward him. When I got there, the nurse was starting compressions and I started to help, as well." EMS soon arrived, and used a defibrillator to restart Dreher's heart before

Ray Dreher, who survived a heart attack at the Red October Run in Wayne last year returned with his son, Mark Dreher, to complete the 5K run this month.

Longest-serving Plymouth trustee is mourned

Funeral services took place yesterday for the longest-serving member of the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees, Kay A. Arnold, who died last Friday, Oct. 8.

Mrs. Arnold, 76, was born March 26, 1939, in her grandmother's home in Columbus, Ohio, to Edward and Wilma Bradfute. She attended Central Michigan University, and she was an avid Ohio State Buckeye fan.

She was the business manager at Colonial Collision in Plymouth, where she had worked since 1983. She was also very active in the Plymouth community, having served two terms on the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Board and 12 years on the Community Financial Credit Union Board. She served on the Republican Committee Wayne 11th, and she was currently serving her fifth term as a Plymouth Township Trustee, for a total of 22 years of dedicated service.

She was a volunteer with United Way, the Plymouth Community Arts Council and the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

"Mrs. Arnold served as a trustee for 23 years and worked on the Planning Commission for 20 years. She was a quiet leader who led by example-she believed in Plymouth. Everywhere you go in Plymouth Township you'll see evidence of her work," said Township Supervisor Shannon Price.

Mrs. Arnold's close friend Marilyn Massengill spoke fondly about their long relationship. Massengill said she met Arnold in 1992 for the first time at a swearing-in ceremony before the late Plymouth Judge James Garber. Both Arnold and Massengill were newly- elected officials; Massengill as

Kay A. Arnold

Township Clerk and Arnold as Trustee. They continued to work together until Massengill retired after 16 years of service. Arnold continued to hold her elected position and work on the township planning commission at the same time until becoming ill a few months ago.

"She was a loyal friend--someone you could talk to and share your feelings with...we both celebrated our birthdays and holidays together. This July we took a really nice cruise to Alaska. It was Kay's first ocean cruise." Massengill said.

"We enjoyed each other, had a lot of fun. She was always there for me." Massengill said.

Township officials spoke of Arnold's dedication to Plymouth and the various projects she supported in the community.

Fellow board member Bob Doroshewitz, who worked with Mrs. Arnold since 2004, said the two of them would often talk and he would joke with her saying, "You're a tough ole broad," and they would have "a good laugh together."

"She'll surely be missed..I really respect her years of service to the community," Doroshewitz said.

Mrs. Arnold is survived by her beloved husband, Tim; her transporting him to the nearby hospital.

Ray Dreher, fourth from right, who survived a heart attack during the 2015 Red October Run enjoyed the support of his family when he returned to the event this year. Also on hand to support him were Karen Weaver, MD, who saved his life last year and, from left, Chuck and Michelle Pfeifer, Mark Dreher, Dreher, Weaver, Laurie and Billy Walker and Charlie Pfeifer, 6 in front.

The initial diagnosis was that Dreher required an emergency quadruple bypass. Dreher responded to the initial treatment so well, however, that the operation was scheduled for the following Monday, instead.

He said he had never experienced any symptoms prior to the race. He ran 2 miles a day, and thought he was in good health.

"I was pushing it a little, but I think it was a godsend that I did that. Who knows if that had happened where I typically run, back in the woods where there isn't anyone, it could have been a different story."

Weaver said she'll always remember that day, and is glad to have a chance to meet him again under much better circumstances.

"I'm a family doctor and I don't always get to see this kind of miracle," she said. "We do things little by little every day and hope it makes a difference. This is something special."

Dreher brought a whole team with him this year, all dressed up in corresponding t-shirts that read: The beat goes on, since the Red October Run 2014.

He said it was a way of thanking the people who saved him, and paying tribute to their efforts.

"I never really had the opportunity to thank all the right people. I want the world to know," he says. "As far as I'm concerned, I'm here because of what these folks did. Without the things they did-I wouldn't have made it. Had they not been where they were at, it would have been a lot different."

The Red October returned to the community for the 25th year on Oct. 3. The event drew 968 people, from ages 2 to 86. It featured a 5K run, a 5K walk a 10K run along with the Kids Jr. Red October, a mile-long race designed for young people.

"This has been an awesome event through the years we've catered to everyone from young children and families - to "first time" racers - to the elite competitors," said Cindy Cook, community benefit coordinator for Beaumont Health.

Top finishers included:

Lisa Veneziano, 51, of Fenton was the top female finisher in the 10K event with a time of 38:59, which is a pace of 6:17 per mile. Landry Bennett, 23, of East Lansing clocked it at 35:00, good for a 5:39 per mile pace and first place among male finishers. In the 5K, Kira Garry was the top female finisher with 17:05. The 22-year-old Ann Arbor resident set a 5K course record with a pace of 5:31 per mile. Paul Mayer, 48, of Ann Arbor was the top male finisher in the 5K run, with a time of 17:53, which is a mile every 5:46. Center dedication tomorrow

The official dedication of the Jefferson Barns Community Vitality Center will take place at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

The newly-renovated center, located in the historic Norwayne district of the community, now houses administrative city offices formerly located in the Dorsey Center.

Constructed in 1942, the Norwayne neighborhood is the oldest in Westland, erected during World War II for the workers at the Willow Run Bomber Plant. During the peak war effort, the subdivision was home to more than 20,000 residents. By the 1980s, the area housing stock started to decline and it was apparent that the subdivision was in need of restoration.

> The Norwayne neighborhood was added to the National Registry of Historic Places in July of 2013.

Mayor William R. Wild took a strong interest in the historic area and his efforts, along with those of the city council members, have resulted in the stabilization of the neighborhood. The city used federal funding through qualifying programs, and has encouraged investment in the neighborhood through renovation grants. Funds have also been used for road improvements and infrastructure repairs.

The Norwayne neighborhood was added to the National Registry of Historic Places in July of 2013.

The Jefferson Barns Community Vitality Center is the result of a $650,000 renovation of the former Jefferson Barns Elementary school which has been vacant since 2010. The new facility includes the Norwayne Boxing Club and a library. Basketball courts and baseball fields will be installed next spring. The center is also home to Nankin Transit which is a local bus system that services senior citizens and handicapped residents in the City of Westland, Wayne, Inkster and Garden City.

The dedication ceremony will begin with a ribbon cutting and presentations by local dignitaries followed by tours of the facility. Light refreshments will be served.

The Jefferson Barns Community Vitality Center is located at 32150 Dorsey.

Court offers online payment

The electronic age has come to the 29th District Court in Wayne.

Traffic tickets can now be resolved online in some cases with the installation of an online platform through Court Innovations Matterhorn.

Now, drivers who have received some minor infractions can access the system, answer questions through the screen prompts and determine if they are eligible to resolve the violation online. If so, the driver can request a review from the Wayne Police Department. If the police department approves the request, it will be forwarded to the judge or a magistrate for a determination. Motorists can follow their case online and the decision of the court will be sent to them by text or email.

The electronic program is voluntary and drivers can opt for a hearing in court. To access the new program, visit the 29th District Court website and clinic on Online Ticket Review to begin the eligibility process.

Only minor infractions are eligible for the online service.

INKSTER - ROMULUS

Paint the town

Volunteers work on historic home

One Romulus veteran received a gesture of appreciation for his 22 years of service last month as a small army of volunteers descended on his home to make repairs.

Gerald Wendland served in the U.S. Army for more than 22 years and is a veteran of Vietnam. He suffers from diabetes and the disease cost him one of his legs. His declining health severely limited his ability to care for his Goddard Road home which was originally built in 1893, and has been in his family for several generations.

When officials from Westside Distributors came to the city searching for a community service project to sponsor, Mayor LeRoy Burcroff assigned the task of finding a project to the Ordinance, Building and Community Services departments where personnel searched for city homes where owners were in need of help with maintenance due to health or financial circumstances.

They suggested Wendland's home which was the unanimous choice of city officials.

There was a great deal of work necessary at the Wendland home before the volunteers could even begin the painting. Rolling Thunder Chapter 5 members, city employees and members of local St. John's Lodge #44 were busy for two weeks prior to the painting removing extensive and overgrown brush which covered most of the home's exterior, power washing to remove old paint, and repairing and replacing rotten wood on the structure.

"Mr. Wendland's military service and dedication to our city made him an outstanding candidate for this project," said Robert McCraight, director of Public Services and Veterans Outreach Committee Chair for the City of Romulus, and member of local veterans support group, Rolling Thunder Chapter 5.

Volunteers were finally able to begin painting at the home on Sept. 24 and more than 40 volunteers from Westside Distributor's volunteered their own time to complete the renovations at the home.

"Community involvement is one of our company-wide core values. We are a Romulus-based company, so we wanted to give back to our base through a hands-on project to get our whole team involved," said Tom Manor, sales manager for Westside Distributors.

"This was a great example of the kinds of partnerships we are looking for from our local businesses. Just like our motto says, 'Industry and its citizens working together'," said Burcroff. "If there are other businesses or organizations that wish to do similar projects, I encourage them to contact my office at (734) 942-7571."

"My home was built in 1893 and I was happy and thankful to see the community come together to help me take care of it," said a grateful Wendland as he admired the completed project.

Annual raffle will help 100 families at holidays

The Inkster Legends are attempting to live up to their name again this year with the help they offer more 100 local families at the holidays.

The annual raffle which supports the 2015 Christmas Giveaway is now under way and $10 tickets are now on sale.

Fred Smiley, the director of the group, said that the increased need in the community has prompted an early start on sales.

"Last year, we were able to help 200 children in 52 families," he said.

Smiley said that the help from Meijer and Kroger is phenomenal and an integral part of the effort, as well as several other sponsors who donate to the effort.

"Last year we had a single mother with nine children and another single mom with seven children," Smiley said. "These are people who really need our help."

The effort is funded completely by donations, the raffle and sponsorships, Smiley, who operates the Inkster Legends Basketball Camps said.

The $10 raffle ticket offers a chance at the first prize of two tickets to see the Jan. 29 Detroit Pistons game against LeBron James and the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Second prize in the $10 raffle is four tickets to the Jan. 2 Harlem Globetrotters performance at the Palace of Auburn Hills. Third prize is a 24-inch flat screen TV and fourth prize is a case of Choice T-bone steaks.

The raffle will also award four dinner prizes including dinner for two at Urban Soul, dinner for two at They Say, dinner for two at Big Bear Lodge and a $30 gift certificate for Red Lobster.

The winners of the raffle will be announced during the televised regular meeting of the Inkster City Council in December, Smiley said.

For details about the raffle or to purchase tickets, contact Smiley at (734) 890-2478.

NORTHVILLE - PLYMOUTH

Officer's retirement marked

Lieutenant Kevin "Cal" Lauria celebrated his retirement with friends and coworkers at a restaurant party last week after 25 years with the Plymouth Township Police Department.

During his career Lauria served in various capacities in the department, including the rank of detective, field training officer, evidence technician and was a member of the department honor guard. He was promoted to his current rank in 2011.

Lauria, 48, started his public safety career in 1990 near his hometown of Grand Rapids with the Walker Police Department and six months later joined the Plymouth Township police force as a patrol officer.

Hesitant to talk about his numerous awards and accomplishments, Lauria said his father, retired court magistrate Vincent Lauria of the 61st District Court in Grand Rapids, was his inspiration to get into police work.

"After school, me and my brothers would go to the courtroom and listen in on informal hearings with my Dad…I loved it." Lauria said.

One of seven children, Lauria and three of his brothers are in law enforcement. One sister also works in public safety as the head of security for a firm in Alaska.

Plymouth Township Police Chief Tom Tiderington and Township Supervisor Shannon Price honored Lt. Lauria at a board of trustees meeting last month and spoke of his many letters of commendation and gratitude for his service from citizens and other law enforcement agencies, including the FBI.

A graduate of Northern Michigan University, Lauria holds a Bachelor of Science degree in criminal justice and a minor in communications.

Lauria, a long-time Farmington area resident, said he has plans to work in sales and later move to St.Croix.
